"Who are the millionaires?" asked Alderman Muh. "Are they the people's representatives or the Aldermen? Do they take from or give to the people? Do they get up o' nights and get their constituents out of trouble? Do they help people from being dispossessed, as the Aledermen do, or do they have people dispossessed? I'd like to know who knows better the condition of the people who need work, the Alderman, who is nearest to them, or the millionaire, who knows nothing and cares nothing about people who apply to him? "It is a mistake to say the 100 tickets were given to the Metropolitan or Millonaires Club as a body. The tickets were given on motion of Mr. Straus to gentlemen who, I believe, are members of that Club, and who are supporters of charity organizations for which they get the tickets."

"That makes it all teh worse," said an Alderman later. "These millionaires don't know whether these tickets will be given to worthy men or not. They get them because they are rich men, and they will give them or have them distributed to persons who they think will need them, while, in fact, 109 more needy and deserving ones may be kept out of work thereby, and, mayhap, for all we know, to starve."

Him $95.

John Moore, thirty years old, of 586 Tenth avenue, was held for examination in Jefferson Market Police Court to-day on a charge of robbing and assaulting James Reilly, of 419 West Thirty-ninth street. Reilly was found in the hallway of 424 West Thirty-ninth street late, last night badly bruised and unable to account for his condition. After he revived, he accused Moore of attacking him and robbing him of $85 in money. He said that he and Moore and a man named McDermott and his wife met at the latter's house, 424 West Thirty-ninth street, last night and included in a mixed-ale soirce. Two other women joined the party, and the can was filled and refilled with beer galore. Relly in sending out for the beverage handed Moore a $10 bill, exposing, at the same time, a roll of $100.

Relly added that when ale overcame him, Moore attacked him and stole $95. Relly was unable to appear in court to-day, and the case went over until March 3. revived, he accused Moore of attacking

Reduce the Power of Police. (By Associated Press.) ALBANY, March 1. There has been much speculation as to the bill jutro mit, at the coming November election City the question whether or not saloons and liquor stores may sell on Sunday after 1 o'clock. The second section provides that if th vote is favorable to Sunday selling, the ext session of the Legislature may amend the Excise laws accordingly and place around such Sunday selling amend the Excise laws accordingly and place around such Sunday selling proper conditions and restrictions.

"The measure," said Assemblyman Foicy to-day, "is backed by the Wholesale Liquor-Dealers' Association. It is calculated to reduce the power of the police over the liquor dealers. That is the political side of it and in its passage the wholesale liquor dealers propose to deal a blow at the brewers. By its passage the Republicans hope to split the vote of the liquor dealers."
